

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information processing apparatus comprises: a first unit capable of wirelessly communicating with a plurality of external devices which display received image data; a second unit for simultaneously
5 transmitting the image data to the plurality of external devices by using the first unit; and a second unit for updating the image data transmitted by the second unit.